

In the Abstract:

~~There are provided a~~ A communication system, a communication method and program thereof capable of easily constructing a system in which communication between an IC tag and a mobile information terminal having a built-in or externally-attached reader/writer is used[[,]]. ~~so that, for example,~~ URL information in the Web page for disclosing personal information stored on the IC tag is read by the reader/writer and the information is accessed[[,]]. [[and a]] A security system is provided in which an alarm is performed for preventing losing an article according to the communication state between the IC tag and the reader / writer, and if an article is lost, its position information ~~is able to~~ can be checked by a mobile information terminal or another terminal device.